A WINTER FORECAST

There something funny about the weather here. No matter how far he may miss it, he always manages to forget his failures and turn up a little later with another prediction.

We feel sure many citizens around Bryan recall the prediction of the Chicago scientist, a Mr. Brown, that two years ago would be a "year without a summer." They will also probably remember how far he missed it. Well, Mr. Brown wasn't squelched with that failure. He is with us again, and this time to predict that the winter just ahead of us is going to be composed of a little of everything, though not enough cold to class it as a "hard winter." He says there will be many light falls of snow, but that most of them will come toward the end of the season. He predicts plenty of sleet and ice and an unusual amount of high wind. Foliage, still green at the time he made his prediction, leads him to believe that this will be what we usually call an "open winter," and one without excessive moisture.

We have no means of knowing how many of our readers, if any, set any store by these self-appointed forecasters. Neither do we know whether or not they follow their predictions, or if they prefer to do their own guessing. But we do know that the weather is still the favorite topic of conversation, so we are offering Mr. Brown's forecast in the hope that it may add a little interest to the subject.

Lions of Bryan in Competition With Other Organizations for Christmas Decoration of City

Competition among various organizations in Bryan to stimulate the use of attractive and beautiful lighting effects at Christmas time was advocated at the weekly meeting of the Bryan Lions Club by I. E. Warren, city electrician, and the club voted to enter such a competition and will use the Howell apartment building as a background for myriads of colored electric lights and emblems of the season of Yule.

C. E. Griesser was in charge of the program and introduced Mr. Warren. He called attention to the fact that the jubilee of the incandescent lamp was celebrated this year and advanced the opinion that Bryan could do nothing better, in celebration of the discovery by Edison, than to decorate every available building and spot with electric lights during the holiday season.

Grand Jury Summoned To Investigate Lynching

(By Associated Press) EASTLAND, Nov. 20.—Impatient at the law's delay and enraged over the condemned man's latest crime, Eastland citizens last night took Marshall Ratcliff, Cisco Santa Claus bandit, from jail and hanged him with a stout grass rope to a telephone cable near the jail.

Two years ago Ratcliff, dressed as Santa Claus, participated in a bank holdup in which two officers and one of his companions were killed. Monday, after feigning paralysis and gaining the sympathy of his keepers, he attempted a jail break, shooting and seriously wounding Deputy Tom Jones.

Last night 200 men overpowered the jailer, entered Ratcliff's cell and dragged him to the street and lynched him. His only covering was a bandage around his head as a protection for wounds suffered in his attempted break.

According to reports from Amarillo by radio early this morning Ratcliff was first strung up and then the rope broke. After a delay of about 15 minutes a second rope was obtained and the doomed man was again hauled clear of the ground. Then some one in the mob suggested that Ratcliff be lowered, as he might desire to say something before his death at the hands of the mob. He was lowered to the ground again and is said to have mumbled something which was not understood. Then, according to the report, he was hauled up for the third and last time.

(By Associated Press) EASTLAND, Nov. 20.—Deputy Sheriff Tom Jones, wounded by Marshall Ratcliff, bank robber who was lynched here last night, died in a hospital at 11 o'clock today.

Later District Judge George Davenport called the county grand jury into special session to investigate the lynching. It will convene tomorrow.

To Enjoin State From Collection Of Gasoline Tax

(By Associated Press) WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 20.—Wichita county may be aided in its fight on the state gasoline tax by the city of Wichita Falls. Wayne Somerville, county attorney, has obtained authority to bring injunction proceedings asking that the state be restrained from collecting the four-cent levy on gasoline intended for county use and has asked city officials to join him.

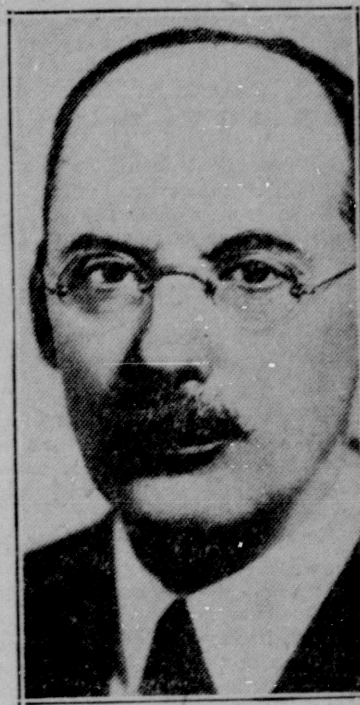

R. L. Bobbitt, attorney general, said while here recently that constitutionality of the tax probably would have to be decided in the courts, revealing that he had been asked to hand down a ruling on the law.

Somerville contends the law is unconstitutional since it taxes a political subdivision of the state.

Since the election County Judge McSwain, with members of the commissioners court, has held a number of meetings in rural precincts. The gospel of wider and straighter roads and of permanent drainage has been preached, with the result that in every section where a meeting has been held the farmers have agreed to give land for wider and straighter roads, to move back the fences without cost to the county, and have agreed that the portion of the money to be spent in their respective communities should be invested in permanent drainage. The county has pledged itself to grade up and maintain the roads in the best possible condition.

The date at which the $250,000, or any part of it will be available, is not yet known but Judge McSwain stated that as quickly as funds were available the county was ready to begin work on drainage in localities where the residents have given land for wider, straighter roads and had moved the fences back.

LATERAL ROAD IMPROVEMENT NOW IN SIGHT

Three Series Passed By Attorney General

BIDS FOR PRINTING

Will Be Sought and Then Market For Securities

Word was received today by County Judge A. S. McSwain from Assistant Attorney General D. L. Whitehurst to the effect that bonds to be issued by Brazos county for the retirement of road bonds issued in the past by Road Districts Nos. 1 and 2 still outstanding, and for the improvement of the rural roads of the county, had been approved, all the preliminaries to the election having been according to legal requirements.

Approval was placed on three series, totaling $573,000. These series are as follows: Series A, totaling $267,000, to exchange for bonds issued by District No. 1 and still outstanding; Series B, totaling $56,000, to exchange for bonds issued by District No. 2 and still outstanding; Series C, totaling $250,000, the proceeds from which will be used in the improvement of the lateral roads of the county.

Judge McSwain, who went to Austin last week, accompanied by F. L. Henderson, member of the Good Roads Campaign committee, stated today that the first step would be to advertise for bids for the printing of the bonds. The sale of the C series, he said, would be made as quickly as practicable after they had been printed and received by the county commissioners court. They will not be sold for less than par and accrued interest.

The expenditure of this money for lateral road improvement was carefully restricted in the election petition. At a conference of representatives from the various election precincts of the county, the money was divided up and just the amounts to be spent in each precinct were set forth in the petition. In some instances the roads on which improvement was to be made also was set forth. This precaution makes impossible no other expenditure of this money unless the law is violated.

Since the election County Judge McSwain, with members of the commissioners court, has held a number of meetings in rural precincts. Dozen for Kansas Eggs, Though Fine Poultry Is Raised in Brazos County

BY NELL BENTLEY

"Fifty cents a dozen for eggs that came from a farm in Kansas, and Brazos county farmers need money so badly," exclaimed a Bryan housewife recently. We wonder why more Brazos county farm homes are not profiting from the dozens of eggs bought every day from local stores and markets?

That the poultry business pays on Brazos county farms has already been demonstrated in numbers of instances and the displays of grain sorghums shown at the American Legion Fair were conclusive evidence that plenty of feed for poultry flocks can be grown on farms in this section. True enough, eggs do not always sell at 50 cents per dozen, but any flock of good hens will pay for their feed at 20 cents per dozen and if properly fed and cared for during the summer months, they come into egg production in the late summer and early fall when eggs always have commanded a good price.

Some of the best chickens to be found in Texas or the southwest are now being bred on Brazos county farms on a scale that involves a capital investment equal to that of many mercantile businesses in Bryan. While it is true that these breeding farms require a considerable investment, it is also true that chickens for egg production and for sale as fryers may be raised with but small investment in stockers, buildings, equipment and labor.

In spite of all the expansion and increase in poultry raising during the past few years, the products are now selling at points higher on the established markets of the United States than they were a year ago.

A few examples of how farm boys and girls of Texas have learned to handle poultry on a paying basis may be found in the following:

Jessie Dowden of Snyder cleared $106.13 from a flock of Leghorns along with other facilities that netted a total of $256.48 cash in the course of a year.

Pauline Caldwell of Cleburne raised 49 out of 50 baby chicks of an English White Leghorn strain and gathered an average of 29 dozen eggs from a flock of 29 pullets for each of the months of July and August. In addition to this she sold seven cockerels at $2.50 each.

Janey Bailey of Nacogdoches raised 357 Barred Rock chickens and managed so well that she reported all of the feed for them as "home grown." She sold—225 from her flock as fryers at a total of $120. Janey worked for her board while attending high school, and in addition to raising the chickens, canned 400 quarts of fruits and vegetables and raised an acre of cotton each year using the proceeds to defray her expenses while in school.

Malvin Whitaker of Cooper made $143.83 from a flock of White Leghorn chickens that she raised from chicks this year and had 40 pullets and 4 cockerels left.

These boys and girls are all members of 4-H Clubs in different sections of Texas and none of them have reported more outstanding success with their poultry products than was achieved this year by a Brazos county boy, Alphonso Habarta, who lives a few miles west of Bryan on the Smetana road. Alphonso made $236.90 from 500 baby chicks and has a nice flock of chickens left on hand.

The price of baby chicks from a Brazos county hatchery is not prohibitive and even if the average farm family had to begin with a few birds of known breeding and worth, we wonder why there is not a flock of chickens on every Brazos county farm that would be supplying eggs and fryers for the family table and at least a few dozen eggs for sale every week.

Naturally, feed, shelter and disease prevention are the first factors that engage the attention of those who consider going in to the business of poultry production and these are important to success in that line, but with every assistance at hand through the Extension Service and A. and M. College, Brazos county farmers should find it easier to solve these problems than folks who live in remote sections of the state.

It has been suggested that service club members and business men who would like to promote and encourage poultry raising for sales purposes, can find no better way to begin than by helping farm boys and girls to secure a few well bred chickens with which to begin building a flock of egg producers. The value of fryers eaten or sold and the aged hens culled and sold at market price or used on the family table should about cover the cost of baby chicks, feed, etc., each year, leaving the flock and the egg sales as clear profit each year.

If it is possible for mere boys and girls to succeed with chickens in Texas, surely grown up men and women on Brazos county farms should be able to make chicken raising pay and it would give Bryan merchants and housewives a thrill to know that Brazos county farm homes were profiting by the present high price of eggs and fryers.

If any Brazos county boys, girls or the farmers have decided to begin raising chickens for profit this year, they should first buy good stocker chickens of one of the breeds adapted to the average farm of this section. What these breeds are, where chicks may be obtained and when is the best time to start baby chicks here, may all be learned by consulting either your county agent, C. L. Beason, or home demonstration agent, Miss Lucy Givens.

Plans for chicken houses suited to Brazos county may be obtained from the Extension Service at A. and M. College and often a few dollars and a few hours work will remodel an old building and make it meet the needs and requirements of a small flock while the farm family gets its experience and a start in the field of poultry production.

Chicks from stock that has been tested and found free from white diarrhoea will be fairly safe from that dread disease and vermin, such as lice, mites, etc., can be pretty well controlled if instructions of the Extension service as to houses and equipment are observed with reasonable vigilance.

Feed, and feeding for growth and egg production, should be carefully studied, the object being to get the maximum results in giving weight to birds for sale and in egg production at a minimum cost for feeds bought and home grown feeds consumed.

How to handle the breeding birds and when is the best time for mating birds if one intends to hatch chicks for the coming year, may all be learned from the county agent and demonstration agent and literature that they can supply and how to handle eggs to secure the highest market price at all seasons of the year, is but a matter of studying conditions and following advice from others who have experience and have the information at hand.

Will we be paying 50 cents per dozen for Kansas eggs this time next year?

Young Negresses Put in Jail for Floating Checks

The lure of "easy money" lured three young negro girls, who gave their ages as 13 years or under, in the county jail last night on the charge of forging and passing forged checks. In all six checks were drawn, each for $1.50, and each purported to bear the signature of Mrs. Morris Schulman, for whom one of the girls had worked for nearly a year.

The girls, Ruth Rowland, 13, who passed the checks; Ella Mae Cooper, 12, who said she wrote them at the suggestion of the Rowland girl, and Ruby May Miller, 12, who said she helped spend the money, which went for sodas and hamburgers, were placed in jail last night by Police Chief Martin, but were released this morning after a conference with Mrs. Schulman.

The first check was drawn Oct. 31 and the money came so easily that others followed in quick succession, the entire list being written and passed in the first six or eight days of the month.

MILICIAN NEWS

The Epworth League gave a "Father and Son" program Sunday night that was most interesting and enjoyable. It was followed by a sermon by the pastor, Rev. M. Secord and was along the same theme.

Mary Francis, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Symms, was laid to rest in Symms Cemetery at 3:30 o'clock Saturday, Nov. 16. The love and esteem borne the baby as well as the parents was attested by the long concourse of friends and relatives, who followed the little body to its last resting place. Mary Francis was possessed of an unusual charm and personality and was loved by many friends as well as by the bereaved parents, grandparents and other relatives.

Relatives from a distance attending the funeral of Little Mary Francis Symms were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Powers of Arcadia, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Hassel of Port Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mills and children of Richland and Miss Elsie Mills of Dallas. Many others were there but names and destinations unknown to correspondent.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Pool Jr. and children have returned to their home at Troy after a few days visit with relatives here.

The submerged bridge over the Navasota river works quite a hardship on the people in this end of the county. The school bus carrying our high school pupils has a 1-2 mile detour and through plantation roads.

Millican still has hopes of an oil field. A prospector drops in our little town occasionally and revives our drooping spirits.

Club Notes and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason and Home Demonstration Agent Lucy Givens

Agriculture Must Organize. Some twelve years ago H. L. McKnight, secretary of the Rush-ton, La., Chamber of Commerce, helped to organize the Tabor Welfare Club the first of its kind in Brazos county and now enjoying the reputation of being the longest lived community club in Texas.

Mr. McKnight states that he has organized ten such clubs around the county and that each of these clubs is having a material part in putting over new enterprises in that section, their latest undertaking being a $200,000 milk plant with a capacity of 100,000 pounds of sweet milk per day.

The future growth of Bryan and the future progress of Brazos county, especially along agricultural lines, are so inter-related that the organizations of both town and county should have the closest relations and unity of purpose. We no longer live apart one from the other. The slogan of American business today is organization and agriculture is being asked to take a front seat. Failure to accept means suicide to our basic industry—agriculture.

Send Demonstration Reports

The county agent is sending out requests for farmers to make reports on their demonstrations, especially those which figured in the Chamber of Commerce prizes for the year. Regardless of what yields have been made, these reports should be sent in. It will furnish a basis for better work in the future. Already some interesting data are being obtained with respect to cost of crop production. One report shows a loss of $4.50 per acre of cotton, while another report, wherein a half bale per acre was produced, shows only 45 cents profit per acre. All these figures will be given to the public later in order that we may reach some of the solutions to the many farm problems. Your reports will materially help. Remember, that individual farm records and live-at-home records are conditioned on at least ten reports by December 1.

Wellborn Couple Celebrate Golden Wedding; Other Co. Nev

Fifty years ago, on November 15, 1879, the marriage of Miss Cora Cooner to Mr. J. M. Williams was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nancy Cooner near Wellborn, and on November 15, 1929, the golden wedding of this couple was celebrated at high noon at the Baptist church, Wellborn. It was an occasion of more than unusual interest, for Mr. and Mrs. Williams have lived in that same community during the fifty years of their married life and both of them are natives of Brazos county.

The church at Wellborn was adorned with golden chrysanthemums, ferns and streamers of golden hued ribbons. An altar of ferns and chrysanthemums was arranged at the pulpit and ribbon streamers marked the section of seats reserved for members of the family.

Before the entrance of the "golden, bridal party," Mrs. J. Walter Smith of Navasota and Mrs. R. M. Dansby of Bryan sang in duet two favorite songs, "When You and I Were Young Maggie" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold," with Mrs. Elmer Reed of Navasota at the piano.

Mrs. R. M. Dansby of Bryan played the wedding march as the bridal party came from the entrance down the church aisle to the altar in the following order: Rev. Jesse Thomson, College Station, who was the officiating minister; the sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Williams were the attendants; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Williams, Wellborn; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Powers, Bryan with W. L. Powers Jr. in arms; Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Smith, Navasota; Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Williams, Bryan; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Williams Jr., Houston; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reed, Navasota; Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Williams, Bryan; Thelton and Curtis Williams, Wellborn.

The little flower girls with baskets of tiny yellow chrysanthemums were Corabeth Powers and Dorothy Louise Williams, granddaughters, and the only great-grandson, James Elmer Reed Jr. of Navasota was the ring bearer. Following these came the bride, dressed in a becoming costume of grey crepe de chine with hat and gloves of same shade, leaning on the arm of the groom, who for fifty years has been her lover and her companion. A bridal bouquet of tube roses and bride buds was carried by the bride and was the gift of her only great-grandson, J. E. Reed Jr.

The ceremony at the altar was beautiful and impressive as Rev. Jesse Thomson pronounced the sacred words of the marriage vows, "as tried and true through half a century" of the happy union of Mr. and Mrs. Williams. The ring used in the ceremony was the wedding ring of Mrs. Williams' mother, and more than 100 years old. With this ring, Rev. Thomson declared, "Whom God hath joined together for fifty years, we today honor, and may the peace of God continue with you, and keep you to the end of life's way."

To the music of Mendelssohn's Wedding March the bridal party left the church, and under the trees in the church yard, congratulations, good wishes, and many beautiful gifts were showered upon the bride and groom of "fifty years."

A bountiful dinner was served to all present, with the bride's cake a handsome three-tier loaf iced in white and decorated with golden roses and fifty candles as the centerpiece on the beautiful table.

As the happy couple enjoyed the dinner together, many memories came, and many friendships were recounted. Only two, who attended the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Williams fifty years ago are living at this time, and they were present, Mrs. Dollie Williams McCulloch and Mrs. Mary Kincannon Williams. They told of how they walked three miles that night across the fields to be present at the first wedding; of the venerable Rev. S. C. Martin, who performed the ceremony; of the "boys and girls" who were there, and are now "gone on."

Rev. R. E. Day of Bryan offered the prayer at the wedding feast.

Stabler School Enjoys 'Big "Weine" Roast

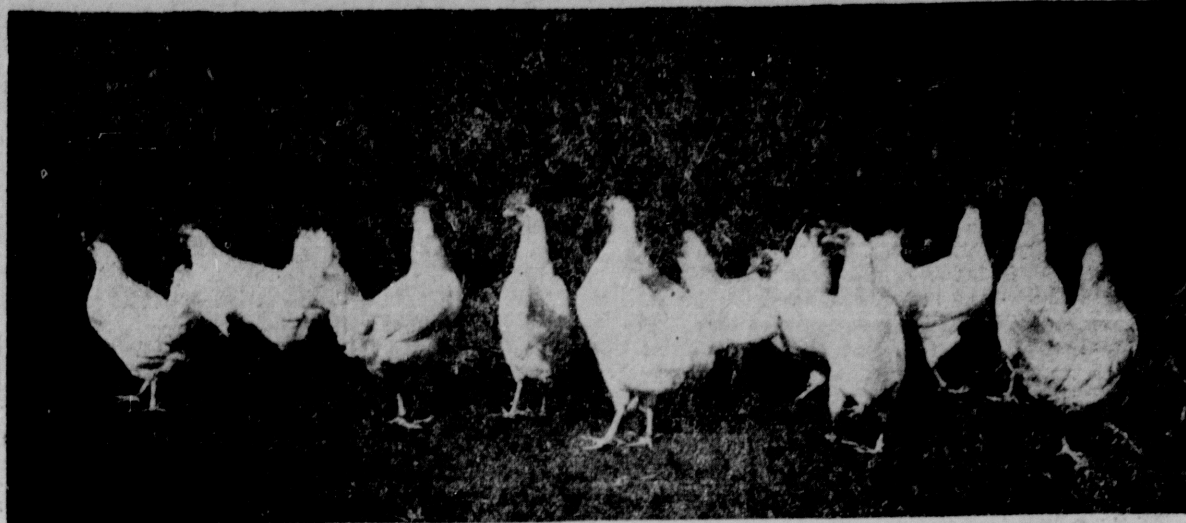

The Stabler school had a most enjoyable "weine" roast recently in appreciation of the cooperation of each pupil that gave the school a hundred per cent attendance at the Brazos County Fair.

One hour was spent in making candy, which was a great success, and which was carefully hidden away until the sausage and marshmallows were nicely roasted. Thanks to one of the ladies for the dessert (four large pies) that went so good with our candy.

The feast was spread on the beautiful green grass out in the open in the golden sun, which was so much needed. There were twenty attending, including the twelve pupils and the teacher.

A Brooklyn bigamist whose salary was $25 a week was convicted. These malefactors of great wealth have to be curbed some way.

Tomato Project Attracts Farmers At Steep Hollow

C. P. Powers, member of the county advisory committee on the tomato growing project, has called a meeting of farmers living in the Steep Hollow community for Wednesday night, when the plan of growing and marketing will be discussed and an effort will be made to increase the acreage devoted to tomato production in that community.

The fact that a tomato producers association has been formed with officers duly elected and that committees have been appointed to proceed with all arrangements necessary to growing tomatoes for market here next season, has given impetus to the movement and it is expected that not less than 200 acres will be planted to tomatoes to be sold here during the next market season.

The proposed cream route to serve Steep Hollow patrons will also be discussed at the meeting on Wednesday night according to County Agent C. L. Beason.

Corpus Christi Visitors Honored With Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Regmund, who have been visitors in Bryan from Corpus Christi for the past week, were the honor guests at a dinner feast Sunday given by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kosarek at their home located in the western suburb of town.

Dinner was served at one o'clock. The dining room was beautifully decorated which added greatly to the enjoyment of the meal, which consisted of many foods prepared in the most delicious and appetizing manner.

The radio was the main feature of entertainment during the day. Most of the guests arrived in time to hear the church services broadcasted over Station WOAI from the First Presbyterian church in San Antonio. Various musical programs were enjoyed that came from different points in Texas and other states.

All enjoyed the day to the fullest extent and the guests assured Mr. and Mrs. Kosarek that their invitations would always receive prompt acceptance.

FARMERS PLAN SATURDAY FOR TOMATO CROP

HOLD MASS MEETING, ELECT OFFICERS FOR COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The tomato enterprise for Brazos county took on definite shape last Saturday when the farmers, assembled in mass meeting at the court house, formed a permanent organization known as the Brazos County Tomato Growers' Association, by electing Lynn Sample, president; Will M. Jones, secretary-treasurer, and the following farmers constituting an advisory board: J. T. Closs, Jr., Tabor; E. M. Seaman, Kurten; Ed Chytil, Edge; Frank Brandeski, Smetana; C. P. Powers, Steep Hollow; Frank Barnes, Harvey; J. M. Ross, Leonard; G. H. Echols, Woodville; C. R. Saxon, Reliance; Ross Bonana, Steele's Store; Fletcher German, Wellborn; J. M. Atkins, Rock Prairie; Ben Lampo, Prospect.

The officers, together with this board of advisors, will have a special meeting next Saturday, Nov. 23, at 2 p. m., at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, to discuss the matter of employing a specially trained truck grower to superintend, or direct, the tomato growing. Other matters of interest to the association will also be brought up at this meeting.

A check up on the acreage Saturday showed more than 125 acres pledged, and this fact justified the steps taken in permanent organization. The white and colored farmers formed separate organizations but joint meetings may be held from time to time, as was the case Saturday.

Reliance Farmers Working for Milk And Cream Route

B. L. Risinger, C. N. Shealy and Leslie Lloyd were named as a committee to make a house to house canvass in their neighborhood to determine how many farmers would become patrons of a milk and cream collection route passing through Reliance, at a meeting of farmers held at Reliance on Friday night for the purpose of outlining plans for operation of a proposed route and designating the route to be followed.

The meeting was well attended and the committee appointed will act in cooperation with similar committee now active at Kurten and Steep Hollow, reporting to County Agent C. L. Beason on Saturday, Nov. 23, with the hope that by that time a sufficient volume of cream will have been secured to justify the route being put into operation at once.

A survey of the cows now being milked in the Reliance community showed that the production from about 50 cows would be available at this time.

The creamery at A. and M. College has arranged to buy cream and milk collected on routes in Brazos county until the volume of production reached a point where a commercial market would be profitable here.

CREAM ROUTE MEETING SET FOR SATURDAY

Tomato Project Also To Be Discussed At That Time

ROAD CAMPAIGN COST

Reported By Secretary of Committee In Charge

Matters of interest and importance in the agricultural development of Brazos county occupied most of the time of the weekly meeting of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce this morning. Particular attention was given the proposition of establishing cream routes and securing acreage sufficient to put this county on the map as a tomato growing area for general market purposes. These two subjects were discussed in detail by County Agent C. L. Beason.

Mr. Beason reviewed the work that had been done toward starting cream routes in the county and ventured the opinion that if one route were started and maintained a short time other routes would naturally follow. He stated that a meeting of interested farmers would be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Saturday for the purpose of working out a route that could be opened up without further delay.

In regard to the matter of tomato raising for the general market Mr. Beason stated the interested farmers of the county had organized and already 125 of the required 200 acres had been pledged to this crop. Most individual farmers will plant from one to two acres. A meeting will be held Saturday, also at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, by men interested in this project for the purpose of completing the acreage and organizing to make the greatest possible success of the project.

Travis B. Bryan, chairman of the highway committee and secretary of the Good Roads Campaign committee, reported on the cost of the recent good roads campaign in Brazos county. He stated that the cost had been $1,255.50 and that of this $299.50 had been contributed by citizens. The balance was paid by the Chamber of Commerce. The widest possible publicity to the importance of good roads was given, Mr. Bryan said, through the cooperation of the Bryan Daily Eagle as well as by the Bryan Weekly Eagle.

J. Bryan Miller, chairman of the fire prevention committee called attention to the lessened fire hazard as well as the saving in insurance rates that would result from the elimination of hose gas connections. He stated that a saving of $1 per $1,000 was possible if other connections were installed.

Oak McKenzie, chairman of the entertainment committee, called attention to the importance of putting up signs that would guide visitors to the college from Bryan to neighboring towns and cities in time for the expected crowd of football fans next week to benefit. This matter was referred to City Manager Miller.

Secretary Eberstadt brought up the matter of accommodations for the visitors here next week, stating that the overflow from the hotels must be taken care of. All persons in a position to accommodate any visitors in their homes are asked to get in touch with the Chamber of Commerce.

W. S. Higgs, chairman of the finance committee, reported favorably on the proposition to donate $50 to the municipal band to aid in purchasing instruments.

The directors decided not to hold a meeting next week, in view of the holiday and adjourned to meet Tuesday, Dec. 3.

Present were: Travis B. Bryan, W. K. Gibbs, H. O. Ferguson, W. S. Higgs, J. Webb Howell, Oak McKenzie, W. L. McCulloch, J. Bryan Miller and M. L. Parker.

Waterway Development

In a recent address before the Mississippi Valley Association Gov. Bibb Graves of Alabama called attention to the fact that the state has come to his state through the development of its waterways, not only for power purposes but for purposes of navigation. The state boasts 1,488 miles of navigable rivers, with 460 miles already developed for transportation.

Barges now transport the products of Birmingham to the Gulf of Mexico, arriving on regular schedule at New Orleans, and navigation from Rome past the new industrial canal, through the cotton country and via Montgomery to Mobile, the state has another inland waterway of great value in the future development of the state. The operations of the power companies in Alabama is an interesting story, but they have added greatly to the industrial activities of the state and to its wealth.

Here in Texas little or no work along this line has been done except in the case of the Intracoastal Canal, which now reaches to Corpus Christi and which it is planned to develop on to Brownsville. President Hoover talks of a canal that will stretch along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts from New England to Brownsville. While this might be a dream, there is small reason to doubt its ultimate accomplishment as the advantages of water transportation are impressed more and more strongly upon the minds of the people.

While such a waterway would be of great advantage to this state, it also is true that much work may be done in the future, toward the development of the rivers for purposes of power and transportation, as well as to conserve water for irrigation and reclamation purposes.

The Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation Commission, formed for the purpose of conserving and developing to the best possible use the waters of the Brazos and her tributaries, has a job that in the end should be of great importance to the state of Texas. While on the surface the development of the Brazos as a navigable stream might seem a far fetched project, yet if proper measures are taken in connection with the headwaters of the river and its tributaries, stranger things have happened than its development to the point where barges may be towed with "hominy freight." What may be true of the Brazos may be true of other larger rivers of this state.

And in any event they should be fertile sources of comparatively cheap and widely distributed power for industrial and domestic consumption, for conservation projects untold value to the agricultural interests of the state; the reclamation of thousands of acres now of no productive value and for recreation purposes, adding immeasurably to the happiness and health of thousands of Texas people.

Mob action such as was taken at Eastland last night, when a man condemned to death for a crime committed years ago and who at this late day was seeking to escape the extreme penalty on an insanity plea, was taken upon his cell and hanged, should not be condoned and action should be taken to apprehend at least the mob leaders and impress on them that in this country the day of mob law and rule is forever past. It is true that the delays and interferences that are possible in our legal and judicial system frequently delay justice and sometimes thwart it, but these facts offer no excuse for the complete overthrow of the whole machinery of the law, which results when such action is taken as that recorded at Eastland last night.

The government's building program will be speeded up, according to reports from Washington. Present plans call for an expenditure of $200,000,000 in addition to $40,000,000 realized from the sale of old properties. This expenditure, in the fact of a proposed tax cut of $160,000,000, is an indication of national prosperity that should give the heartened food for thought—and consolation.

The world progresses and men learn. Now Von Tripitz, prophet of the submarine as a blockading force in the case of the World War, would do away with the blockade as a measure of war in future conflicts. It would appear that the measure and President Hoover, with his proposal for the immunity of food ships against attack, are not far apart.

Apparently the "Young Guard" in the Republican party faces just as much difficulty in dealing with the independents as did the stalwarts of the "Old Guard" and there is increasing evidence that unless some tactics are changed the G. O. P. faces some rough sailing in coming congressional elections.

A headline is to this effect, "P. T. A. to elect officers without 'fight' on floor." Apparently the political education of the women has progressed so rapidly that, like good politicians of the male persuasion, they do most of their farm fighting behind closed doors.

A Houston woman has enjoined the city from cutting down a row of fine shade trees for street improvement. What improves a street so much as well matured trees, especially in a residence section. Here's hoping she wins her fight.

Now it is proposed to muzzle the press if a habeas corpus proceedings is initiated in the Brady murder case. What would be better would be to draw a venire of intelligent and order loving men for jury service.

Over in Georgia a negro was acquitted because alleged bloodhounds that trailed him could not be proved expert either by special breeding or training. Another loophole in the citadel of justice apparently has been opened.

Doheny apparently continues to be the friend of Fall, as he is reported to have purchased the New Mexico property of the former cabinet officer, disposed of at a special master's sale.

Clean Up For Next Week

In less than a week Bryan will entertain the largest crowd of the year, the alumni of Texas A. & M. and of Texas University and their friends and thousands of football fans who will plan to witness the annual classic between the Longhorns and the Aggies on Kyle Field the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day. This crowd will be augmented by the fact that no other conference games will be played in competition with this grudge battle. If weather conditions are propitious the crowd probably will tax the seating capacity of the new A. & M. stadium and in any event thousands of visitors will be here.

These people will come from all sections of Texas and some will journey from without the boundaries of the state. For many of them the trip to Bryan will be their first. Others have been here before but will have an opportunity to check the growth of the city by comparing its present appearance with that on earlier visits. To all of these visitors the best possible impression of the city should be given and every effort should be made to this end.

In the last few months Bryan has practically completed three new public buildings, a wing to one school, a new elementary school building and a new city hall. The Bowie school wing is now in use. The Travis building is ready to move into and the city hall will be ready for occupancy in a very short time. But about some, if not all of these buildings, is to be found more or less debris and other material that is the result of the building operations that have been going on. It would be well—would leave a better impression with the visitor, if the premises in each case were cleaned up as much as possible. This is particularly true in the case of the new city hall. It may be that not all the material that mars the site of this structure could be moved or cleared away at this time, but some of it could be and should be.

What is true of the city is also true of the business house and the private home. Every place of business and residence should be put in the best possible shape, that Bryan may show a clean face to the thousands who will be here next week and compel them to carry away the impression not only that this is a live and hustling business community but that it is an ideal location for one of the largest and most influential educational institutions in the entire south and which is growing in importance in the social and economic life of Texas year after year.

Faith In Bryan's Future

The news that the Montgomery Ward Company plans to establish one of its branch retail stores in Bryan means more to this community than just the fact of a new retail business. In fact, there may be some who will find objection to the further expansion of one of the great chain systems of the country—one that has been developed in only recent years from a mammoth mail order beginning. But that does not militate in any way from the fact that the decision of this company to locate here speaks well for its impression of Bryan as it is today and of its belief in future growth and prosperity.

Organizations such as this, which is now in a period of growth and which is gradually increasing the number of its stores and is looking for strategic and promising locations, do not choose these locations hastily and without a careful and comprehensive survey of industrial and agricultural conditions and possibilities and prospects for future growth.

And if this company, representing foreign capital, which will take what profits it may make here—or a large measure of them—out of this locality, believes that this territory offers an opportunity for business in sufficient volume to show a satisfactory profit, then some of the rest of us, born and bred in this locality, should be more interested in the proper development of this country from an agricultural point of view and, perhaps, take a more active part in the steps that are necessary to this development.

The Aggie football team showed a lot of speed and drive Saturday in the game with the Owls and some of the sophomores who were given a chance in the second half put up a fine game and indicated that A. & M. would be a contender for conference honors next year. As it is, the team is expected to give Texas a hard fight and possibly to win the annual classic with the Longhorns. There appears to be plenty of material. All that is needed is a little more teamwork and football.

Some skeptic has insinuated that if President Hoover had been a bit more liberal with post offices in Virginia that 70,000 majority might not have been piled up against his party in the recent election. But we'd rather think that twice in succession is just one more time than a true Virginian could be expected to vote the Republican ticket.

congress before he retired to his law practice and then later enlisted in the Hoover forces, finally winding up in the cabinet. During the period of the war he was responsible for much legislation that was of value at that time, taking the first steps toward the much discussed conscription of industry for war purposes and defending the position of the man in the ranks of the army and seeing to it that he received better compensation and, in some respects, better care and attention than had been the case in previous wars in which this country played an active part.

A Protestant, Catholic, Jewish seminar, just concluded at Harvard University, and attended by several hundred ministers, priests and rabbis, agreed that honest differences in religious beliefs should be respected, that they should not give rise to doubts of sincerity and, more important, should not prevent full cooperation in undertakings for community improvement and betterment. This was the first meeting of the kind ever held in New England and one of the first in this country. We should have more of them.

Congressman Bloom of New York now advocates a secret vote by congress on the matter of modifying the Volstead act, holding that many representatives and senators otherwise would not vote their convictions but those believed to be held by their constituents. But we had an idea that members of the house and senate were supposed to represent their constituents.

Social Science Seminar

The meeting of the Social Science Seminar on Monday evening presented more the appearance of a city Open Forum than of the modest Seminar group that it usually is. W. H. Thomas drew the largest audience that a local speaker has ever gathered at the Physics Building. The size of the audience and the quality of the program fully justified Mr. Thomas' assertion that the Science and Social Science Seminars were doing for A. & M. College what the "Liberal Club" at Harvard and similar organizations were doing for their respective schools.

Lippmann's Preface to Morals was the subject of the evening's paper and lecture. Mr. Thomas opened his lecture by offering his hat as a bet that the Preface to Morals which now ranks as third best seller would take first place by the end of November. But the finicky gentlemen in the audience after a look at the hat did not choose to take up the bet.

Mr. Thomas picked at the Nordic enthusiasts by calling attention to the fact that the three best sellers this fall were Francis Hackett, an Irishman; Abbe Dimmet, a Frenchman; and Walter Lippmann, a New Yorker and a Jew, but as Dr. Humbert was absent from the meeting this Nordic blow went by unchallenged.

That a book with morals for a title should assume such importance in the reading world was to Mr. Thomas a very hopeful sign. He explained Lippmann's success by the fact that he is a realist. For a long time romanticism has dominated religion, philosophy, education and politics in this country, but now people have the courage to face facts. Preface to Morals marks the turning point in the United States in that direction.

The Preface to Morals is not merely a preface. It analyzes conditions but also offers a solution at least as far as Lippmann himself is concerned. It honestly faces the fact that the theory and dogmatism of our fathers as a basis of ethics is fast breaking down and that youth is confronted with the problem of having lost the old faith and not having a new faith of their own to take its place.

Lippmann finds his faith in what he calls Humanism. Lippmann's idea is that human beings cannot be without dogma, but Mr. Thomas opinion is that dogma is the result of narrow teaching. To require Sunday School teachers to take out a license before they tamper with the minds of the young, would be, Mr. Thomas suggests, a very wholesome social move.

The University of Texas defeated the University of Oklahoma in a football game recently, the score being 40 to 10.

A woman in Oklahoma City has been indicted for forging a will to secure control of a $60,000 estate left recently by the death of D. J. Spencer of that place.

The new Textile Engineering department at A. & M. College will require more than $20,000 to equip and put into operation. The fact that such an investment is being made here is evidence that this industry should flourish here in future years.

When Dr. E. W. Solomon, assigned to the pastorate of the Methodist church here, at the recent Texas conference held at Palestine, reaches Hearn, he will not be "a stranger in a strange land," for there are some in the Methodist congregation who know him personally, and many who have heard with interest of his career in the church.

Forty-eight years as a pastor is Dr. Solomon's record, and during these forty-eight years he has had charge of various city churches, has served as presiding elder in different districts, and had prominent place in all activities of the church. Counted as an old man in years, he is nevertheless young in vigor and spirit, and the Hearn church is to be congratulated upon the prospect of his wise guidance.

Dr. Solomon began his ministry in Alabama after receiving degrees of B. A. and B. D. from Auburn College, and is considered one of the most scholarly men in Methodism.

The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Southwestern University at Georgetown.

Dr. Solomon has a son living in Bryan, our neighboring city, where he was pastor for six years. Coming as he does to a handsome new church, equipped with modern conveniences, Dr. Solomon will no doubt experience renewed interest in all church affairs among his congregation and will enter the work here under propitious circumstances.

Rev. J. Carroll Cooper, whom Dr. Solomon succeeds, with Mrs. J. Carroll Cooper, left this week for Houston to assume the pastorate of Park Place church.

Bearne friends of Rev. and Mrs. Cooper are wishing them well in the new home and the new field of endeavor.—Hearne Democrat.

Officers Chosen At Van; Will Try Commission Plan

VAN, Nov. 21.—This lusty infant oil town, from whose four corners comes the sullen roar of rapid, preoccupied building, now is a quasi-municipality.

The citizens banded together, formed a temporary government and elected officials—J. M. Davenport, a Dallas attorney, city manager; Harry Ungerman, another Dallas lawyer, city attorney; and Dr. A. Wright, health officer. Judge E. R. Tunnell, B. T. Swift, H. P. Stone, Vermer L. Cole, R. Russell, C. T. Pettus and E. B. Tunnell were selected members of an advisory committee somewhat similar to a city commission.

The new government's first concern was the employment of a firm to dispose of rubbish and trash. Next the health officer was empowered to enforce sanitary rules. Dr. Wright likewise will attempt to see that all water used for drinking purposes until the new water plant is installed is fit for consumption.

Meanwhile "Sonny" Ward, new night watchman, has begun his patrols.

As far as was learned no particular campaign against crime was invoked. Van has been congratulated by state officers on the death of criminals within its bounds.

Banking in Texas Known Only Under Four Governments

FORT WORTH, Nov. 21.—Although Texas has been under six flags, only four governments—Mexican, Texas, Confederate and U. S.—have had anything to do with Texas banking, according to Dr. Avery L. Carlson, assistant professor of business administration in Texas Christian University.

Dr. Carlson last summer completed his Ph. D. dissertation on the subject, "A Monetary and Banking History of Texas."

The first chartered bank in Texas dates back to 1847 at Galveston. Dr. Carlson found, established by Samuel May Williams, once secretary to Stephen F. Austin.

Dr. Carlson, whose special field is finance, worked several years on his banking history, visiting Galveston and Austin to search records there. His book contains approximately 200,000 words.

"The first Texas bank grew out of the mercantile business," he found. "Tom F. McKinney and Sam Williams formed a partnership at Quintana, and in the course of their business took up banking. Williams got a charter from Mexico in 1835, but it was not until 1847 that the $100,000 capital was raised with which to establish the bank. Meanwhile, McKinney and Williams had moved their business to Galveston."

"In 1821 Williams was secretary to Stephen F. Austin, and much that we now know about the early days of Texas is due to his records."

According to Dr. Carlson, after the Texas revolution the Republic of Texas recognized Williams' charter and the bank existed until 1858, when Williams died.

"The Republic of Texas was in itself a bank," says Dr. Carlson. "It flooded the country with paper money. Mexican coin and U. S. notes were also used. During the Civil War Confederate paper was in circulation."

"The first Texas national bank was established also at Galveston, in 1865. It was called the First National Bank and was the second chartered bank in Texas. In 1866 three other national banks were established, one at Galveston, one at Houston and a third at San Antonio."

LEASE DANSBY BLOCK FOR 15 YEAR PERIOD

Remodeling Will Be Started In Near Future

OPEN ABOUT APRIL 1

Faith In the Future of City Indicated By Move

Montgomery Ward and Company of Chicago, one of the largest as well as pioneer mail order houses of the country, which in the last few years has adopted the policy of establishing retail stores in communities approved by their research department, will open a store in Bryan early in 1930.

Negotiations between the company and Marshall F. Dansby of Bryan for the lease of the Dansby block at 25th street and Bryan avenue were completed last yesterday and a lease for 15 years had just been signed and received by him last night, and he was authorized to begin construction.

The building will be completely remodeled by Mr. Dansby. The sidewalks and first floor of the building will be brought to city grade, steel ceilings will be put in and a complete new front put in on the east side of the building. Other improvements to make a modern business house, practically fireproof, will be made.

The contract between Montgomery Ward and Company and Mr. Dansby calls for occupation of the building by April 1, 1930, as soon as the company can get to it, and the construction will begin just as quickly as arrangements can be made by the Dansby furniture company to vacate the building.

In this connection, Mr. Dansby stated today that the future policy of the furniture company had not been determined, and that a decision as to whether or not the business would be continued had not been reached.

The Montgomery Ward company in its retail chain store system, carries about as wide a variety of lines of merchandise, it is stated, as could be handled under one roof in stores of the size opened. Hardware, groceries, clothing and many other lines go to make up the stock.

It is the policy of this company to choose new locations for stores that, in the opinion of their research department, have bright and prosperous futures ahead of them. The fact that Bryan has been chosen is an indication that in the judgment of the men who make the decision as to the location of stores, that this city is well suited for future growth and development.

More and Better Sidewalks Urged By Chamber of Commerce; Ferguson Crossing Road Brings in New Trade

The question of more and better sidewalks in Bryan was brought to the attention of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce at the meeting of the directors Thursday by J. Bryan Miller, city manager, who presided over the meeting in the absence of President J. Webb Howell.

The matter was generally discussed, the need for more and uniform construction of sidewalks recognized, and additional construction along this line urged and endorsed by the directors.

The possibility of Bryan being made a distribution point by large concerns doing business in this territory, such as the food and meat concerns, implement houses and others, was discussed by George A. Adams, who pointed out the advantages that would accrue from development of the city along this line.

E. E. Yeager, chairman of the trade extension committee, reported that the improvement of the Ferguson Crossing road had resulted in considerable cotton from that section the road taps being brought to Bryan and trading done here that otherwise would accrue to the benefit of some other market town.

F. L. Cavitt, chairman of the city development committee, reported that he had not yet taken up with the city commission either the matter of annexing additional territory before the census of 1930 or of securing land for a municipal airport. Mr. Cavitt said he planned to appear before the commission at an early date.

As Guy Harris was returning from a business trip to Hearne late Friday afternoon he stopped to adjust what appeared to be motor trouble of some kind and while making an effort to locate the trouble the machine broke into flames about the motor and was a total loss from the fire that followed.

Some gasoline that had been released from the feed line heightened the danger of the flames and made it impossible for Mr. Harris to make any headway efforts to extinguish the fire. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Highway Engineers Take Trip Into Old Mexico and Find Highways Are Being Built Along Straight Lines

"Mexico not only is making a strong bid for tourist trade from the United States, but the good roads that are being built between the larger cities will go far toward stabilizing that country," said John E. Blair, division engineer for the state highway department, who attended the national convention of highway engineers at San Antonio last week and make a trip to Monterey with about 250 engineers representing 30 states.

According to Mr. Blair the Mexican government is building first class roads and in linking the large cities is running them as the crow flies when this is possible. As an example he cited the case of a trip of about 5,000 people about midway between Laredo and Monterey where the party was scheduled to stop for refreshments. The city was not visible from the highway, which missed it about half a mile, but was found in a big grove on the bank of a small stream. No deviation from the straight line of the highway was made to strike this city, as likely would have been the case in this country, he said.

Mr. Blair said the road from Laredo to Monterey was as good a gravel highway as any in Texas and that the work of topping it with asphalt had been started at the Monterey end and about 10 miles had been completed. Mr. Blair also drove 30 miles toward Satillo, 60 miles southwest of Monterey over a beautiful, scenic mountain road. From Monterey a graded road will be open to Mexico City next year, he said, and also a road through the mountains from Laredo to Mexico City.

The trip to Monterey was arranged by the Laredo and Monterey Chambers of Commerce and the Monterey Rotary Club. Every attention was given the visitors and every effort was made to give the impression that Mexico not only was of interest to the tourist but safe for travel. On Sunday the national election day, extreme precautions were made along the route the party followed on its return to the states to prevent any trouble in connection with the election and soldiers were on duty in every community the party passed through.

At Monterey provisions had been made to quarter all the party at one hotel but as it was about four times as large as had been expected several hotels were used. The garage set aside for the accommodation of the cars held only half of them and the rest were parked on the streets about the square in which the hotels were located with motorcycle policemen to guard them day and night.

In speaking of the hospitality afforded the party Mr. Blair said that everything was done that possibly could leave a good impression. "I never saw so many barbecued goats in my life," he said. "They must have slaughtered a million. In addition there were other things to eat, as well as other refreshment for the party," he said.

Golden Rule Farm Chickens Win High Honors in Texas Contests; Take Four Cups of Possible Six

Brazos county chickens from the Golden Rule Poultry Farm walked away with most of the honors in the three egg laying contests that just have been completed in Texas. Out of six possible cups the Golden Rule Leghorns won six and no other breeders won more than one. The contests were held at Stephenville, San Antonio and at A. and M. College.

Cups were offered in each contest for the high pen and also for the high individual. Also, the three contests cooperated to offer a cup for the high individual in all three contests and for the high pen in all three.

The Golden Rule Leghorns won the high pen cup with the entry in the A. and M. contest and the high individual cup with the leading hen at the San Antonio show. This hen also took the cup for the high individual in all three shows and the combination of first pen at A. and M. and fifth pen at San Antonio gave the farm the cup for the high pen in all shows.

The pen of ten White Leghorns in the A. and M. contest won with a record of 2716 eggs, or an average of 271.6 eggs per hen for the period of 51 weeks. The pen was handicapped by a late start and by losing the high hen last January. In March, however, the pen started a drive, producing 294 eggs and setting a new monthly record for a pen of 10 Leghorns and then took monthly honors for five more months.

The high hen in the San Antonio contest, also a Golden Rule White Leghorn, produced 318 eggs in 51 weeks and 324 for 365 days.

In the heavier breeds of chickens at both the A. and M. and the San Antonio contests, the Golden Rule Barred Rocks took high honors. At the College the Barred Rock pen was high with 2,105 eggs and the high bird in this pen took second high individual honors. At San Antonio the Golden Rule Barred Rock pen was high and the high individual honors in this class went to an individual in this pen.

The net result of the two contests—in fact all three—is that Brazos county chickens won a majority of the honors and that in both the light and the heavier breeds the chickens bred in this county took high honors and Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Boriskie, owners of the Golden Rule farm are highly pleased with the result.

"Mrs. M. W. Sims of Bryan, who is visiting in the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Mills, passed another milestone in life's journey, Wednesday, November 13, and it proved one of the happiest of her life, as Mrs. Mills entertained in her honor with a most beautiful luncheon at high noon. The table, exquisitely appointed for the three course luncheon, was centered with a mound of yellow chrysanthemums and covers were laid for twelve, the personnel having been drawn from Mrs. Sims' close friends.

"After the main course the birthday cake, a beautiful confection decorated in a delicate tracing of pink rosebuds and green vine, held sixteen pink tapers, all aglow was cut. The honoree cut the cake and it was served with ice cream. While the after-dinner coffee was being served each guest was required to tell a joke. Many good ones were told, and they added much merriment to this happy occasion. Also telegrams from absent friends were received and read. 'We missed you more than words can express; love and greetings,' signed Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. This is the first meeting of the Federation that Mrs. Sims has missed in 30 years. Another cablegram from faraway London, England, was read. 'Happy birthday Marnere darling, hope you are feeling fine; heartfull of love,' signed Kathleen and Bob. In Tune with the World

"Let me make the songs of a people, and let who will make their laws," so one wise man has expressed the importance of music.

Music is the universal language. It is understood, appreciated by, and inspires all people; leaping the barriers of difference in language, race, color and creed. Because of its universality, it is one of the great forces working toward universal peace and understanding.

Every people, every nation has its music; an understanding and appreciation of this music gives us an understanding and appreciation of its people.

Nature has endowed every individual with a love of music. It is the natural expression of our emotions. Each one of us responds to some strain, tune or melody. Because of this, music should be encouraged in our homes, in our schools, in our churches—everywhere in our community.

Music is a necessity of life in every community. An investment in music yields rich dividends in the way of delightful entertainment and the joys of living. Fortunately, good music is within the reach of everyone today.

Every home should be "in tune with the world." Every family should be afforded the opportunity of enjoying the best in music, for modern music conserves the home.

Such modern miracles—as the phonograph, the player piano and the radio—enable every member of the family circle to gain a better appreciation and understanding of music.

All children should have the opportunity to develop their musical talent, every home should possess one or more musical instruments. The talented youth should be given proper instruction by music teachers in our music schools.

It is the duty of every community to provide its citizens with a civic band, or orchestra. Every community should have a director of music in its schools, teaching appreciation and knowledge of music, furnishing voice and instrumental training.

"Music hath charms—" Let us take full advantage of these charms. Let's, as a community, be "in tune with the world."

Music keeps us in tune with each other as well as in tune with the world.
